

John Trueman

John Trueman has spent the last five years implementing the Indian Residential Schools Settlement Agreement, the largest class-action settlement in Canadian history and a significant milestone towards reconciliation between Canada and its Aboriginal peoples. As part of the launch team for the Independent Assessment Process, he led development of the Indian Residential Schools Adjudication Secretariat's admissions function, which reviews incoming claims upon receipt to ensure their eligibility. He currently serves as Project Manager, leading work on a variety of policy and process-related issues. A published author and photographer, John lives in Vancouver, where he actively volunteers in the area of non-profit housing and child and youth services.
